Subject: Bill of Rights Attack on Majority Law Abiding Citizens?

Dear family & friends in Christ,

The Federal Government plans to introduce a Bill of Rights, which at face value seems to be very good, in particular the way it's packaged and promoted by clever agents of the Rudd Government. I heard one such agent say on TV last week, 'there are 40,000 submissions and I guess most of them support the bill.' However, this is not true. According to information I have received from a person within the Government who does not agree with this bill, most submissions are against it.

Currently across Australia, there are many one-track minded forums promoting how good this bill is. It seems we are reliving the introduction of the Racial & Religious Vilification Laws all over again. The Government held similar forums across Victoria where many people were in opposition to them. Although there was around 80% of submissions against, the Government passed the Racial & Religious Vilification Laws anyway.

I wonder why the Government calls for submissions and conducts forums, because it seems their bills will pass anyway. Is it all a big farce to make the public think they are a free and democratic Government run by the people.? In reality the Left-Wing secular agendas (also promoted by the United Nations) will be carried out anyway, whether the rest of us Aussies like it or not.

So how will this so called Bill of Rights help Australians? It seems this Bill will help all minority groups while taking away the rights of the majority law abiding citizens in the country. White Australians and Christians in particular will possibly be the biggest victims, similar to the Vilification Laws in Victoria. Almost all complaints accepted by the Equal Opportunity Commission were from minority groups against the majority in the nation. I know of at least 3 Christians who lodged complaints with the EOC, but the EOC refused to entertain the complaints.

I guess that additional groups of people who will most likely be advantaged from a Bill of Rights are the Pedophiles, Rapists, Murderers, Islamic Terrorists, etc. Click on the link below to read Andrew Bolt's article in the Herald Sun on 3rd July regarding a convicted serial killer who killed 7 people and is already fighting for his rights from inside prison.

Should these people actually have any rights at all when they have destroyed or taken away (in some cases) the rights of others forever. Why should the Australian tax payer pay for their legal expenses?

So, will the Bill of Rights go through?? Unfortunately the answer may be 'YES'. We are reaping the harvest right now from what we sowed in the last federal election, with much more to come. Before the last federal election at the National Press Club in Canberra, in response to a question Kevin Rudd clearly stated to the Christians gathered that he had plans to introduce the Bill of Rights if elected. I was present at this Forum. John Howard rejected such an idea. John Howard personally told me when I met him in Parliament that he would not touch such a bill because of what happened in Victoria.

If the Bill of Rights get through, you will possibly find homosexuals, atheists, witches, Satanists, and people from other religions sitting in the Sunday Church services, and then complaining against the Pastor, taking him to court because something he said violated their rights. The Pastor would then have a choice in court to apologize and stop preaching the true Word of God or stand his ground and go to jail.

Well you might just laugh and say, "this will not happen in Australia." I have news for you. That's exactly what happened to us when we were taken to court by the Islamic Council of Victoria assisted by the Equal Opportunity Commission. The Victorian Vilification Laws will look like a puppy dog if the Bill of Rights gets through.

Christian schools, Bible colleges, and Churches could be forced to recruit people who do not believe or hold the same moral and ethical values. It was reported to me by some students that some Christian schools and at least one Bible college are fervently praying against this bill as they realize there could be severe consequences if this bill gets through.

What amazes me is when a church wants to get local council approval to buy a building in an industrial area for the purpose of having services (mainly on weekends and after hours), in most cases their applications are rejected. I know of at least 4 such cases in the area where we live. The churches now have to fight a court case to get approval through VCAT (Tribunal) and spend tens of thousands of dollars. However the Islamic school for 800 students in a highly residential area in Sydney was given approval by the Council. In spite of severe opposition by the local residents in the areas, as it would cause severe traffic congestion, as there are 4 schools already in the area.

I have been told that in many forums across Australia our court case has been used to oppose the Bill of Rights. Interestingly, one of the key players in promoting the Bill of Rights is a young Muslim Lawyer by the name of Waleed Ali. He was the spokesman for the Islamic Council of Victoria during my court case. A clever promoter of Islam spoke on how good the Bill of Rights is on TV. Unfortunately, most people would not see the underlying goal of Islam to spread its message to the West. Like us Christians they to have the right to do so, but we must not give away our rights to embrace laws which will destroy our Christian heritage and destiny.

I pray in this hour of trial that you would not lose heart but will grow stronger in the Lord and get ready to meet Him face to face. Jesus is coming back very, very soon. ARE YOU READY???

Your brother in Christ,
